Bangladesh Marine Academy Annual International Scholarship For Small Island
Developing States SIDS and form African LDCs

Ocean-going ships around the world are governed by the International laws and regulations formulated by the International Maritime Organization (IMO). Most of the Small Island Developing States (SIDS) from the Africa, Caribbean, and Pacific regions, and Least Developed Countries (LDCs) of Africa, are members of IMO and these countries extend strong support for Bangladesh. All these states are lagging behind in different economic indicators. Moreover, they are suffering severely from the adverse effects of climate change. To overcome these adversities, other countries around the world pay serious attention to the voice of SIDS and LDCs. Bangladesh is not an exception. One of the major foreign policies of Bangladesh is to take into account the needs of friendly countries.

Bangladesh has always played a vocal and active role in multilateral and regional diplomacy in favour of SIDS and LDCs. Bangladesh, a country of maritime excellence, now wants to offer scholarships to cadets of SIDS for the purpose of enhancing South-South cooperation.
